To the Shareholders of Skye International. Inc.:

Since our last letter to you we have been very busy completing critical milestones. Notably, SKYE's tankless water heater has been re-designed from the ground-up, making FORTIS among the safest and most durable product design available to consumers. Indeed, the FORTIS product series was certified by Intertek Testing Labs, NA, Inc. as of November 13, 2007 and earned an "ETL" certification mark after significant safety testing, which included UL testing Standard 499. Intertek also conducted a manufacturing facilities audit of Electrosem, Skye's engineering partner, and issued interim manufacturing approval for the FORTIS. This is a significant milestone for SKYE as it now paves the way for us to commence sampling production of the FORTIS with full production expected to commence in mid-2008.

Going forward, our management team is focused on product distribution and obtaining funding for volume production of the FORTIS product series. We also continue to actively and timely move forward on our proprietary patent applications. Patent filings and diligent monitoring of the marketplace for all infringement on the company's intellectual properties shall remain a key focus.

Next, with the May 2006 Shareholder Derivative lawsuit almost behind us, the company has been able to reinitiate its path to production—albeit 22 months later. Although the company is still defending its wholly-owned subsidiary's patent infringement lawsuit with David Seitz, we have been able to move forward despite these divisive actions and false accusations. Fortunately, shareholders have been contributing capital to stay current with the company's vendors and SKYE has also made dramatic reductions in the outstanding payables.

The lawsuits, delays, and failed execution to this point have all negatively impacted SKYE's stock price, which recently has been trading in the $0.10 range. Given the recent accomplishments cited above, and the improvements to our financials for the period ending December 31, 2007, we believe that finally we are ready to turn and execute a successful product launch in the consumer home and plumbing supply arena.

The company's Board of Directors and management remain confident that our business plan, though delayed by litigation, is nonetheless moving diligently forward. The Board also believes that decreasing or reducing the amount of outstanding shares of its common stock would be beneficial to the company and its shareholders, and recently approved a proposal for a 4 to 1 reverse stock split. The company will also concurrently decrease the number of authorized shares by that same ratio. The primary reason for these measures is to attract additional capital from the private and public sectors.

You will receive further communications from us in the future regarding the reverse stock split and SKYE's progress, and you should soon see the FORTIS instantaneous electric water heater available in your area. We have enclosed a FORTIS brochure so that you can become more familiar with this exciting product series, along with a copy of the latest press release from the International Builders' Show in Orlando, Florida.

We want to thank you for taking the time to read this letter and your continued support of SKYE International, Inc. We are hopeful that this information has been useful to you. Certainly, if any of you have any questions of SKYE, please do not hesitate to contact us.
